Relevant work experience and how it relates to Toastmasters and your role as a District leader:
20 years in the U.S. Navy leading up to 40+ sailors, developing and training my replacements.
Teaching 4 years, learning how to reach many different types of learners.
40+ years dealing with the public and understanding how to deal with various personalities.
1 year working for a city government as a supervisor and balancing the needs of the public and my direct reports.

What experience do you have in strategic planning?
While managing a veterans establishment, I had to be able to do forecasting both in the area of finance and supply management. I was responsible for creating and delivering the plan for the expansion of services, with a complex reward to expense ratio. Ultimately, I was able to increase the options for our clients by 200 percent.

What experience do you have in the area of finance?
I have actively worked in the area of accounting/finance since 2009. I am currently the Financial Supervisor for the City of Las Vegas.

What experience do you have in developing procedures?

35% of my current job is to observe and create/revise desktop procedure guides for all areas of my team's operations.

What lessons did you learn from previous leadership positions?

2 very important lessons that I learned is first, ask the newest, most junior member their ideas first, that way you get fresh ideas, without them being influenced by others, and second, I don't have to do everything myself. That's why I have a team.

Why do you want to serve as a District leader?

Toastmaster is an organization that is designed to help and support an individual in their "self improvement" journey. We should all be willing to give back especially if we have benefited by those that have served in the past.

In your opinion, what are the District mission's major objectives and how would you work to achieve them?

The Districts mission objective should be to support the clubs within. Without the clubs, there would be no district. The clubs are the ones serving on the front line to provide the training, and leadership to support the individual members.

Additional information about yourself:

I have developed many significant relationships within the Toastmaster community that I can draw upon for guidance and support during the year if elected. I am looking forward to serving.
